

As the UN attempts to find a negotiated political solution, the Organization for Statehood and Freedom (OSF) works to facilitate the conflict resolution process by increasing the visibility of the Western Sahara, so the international community becomes more aware of one of the world's longest-running struggles. OSF's internal operating costs are funded entirely by VDI, an international consulting company dedicated to bettering the community in which it operates at a local, national, and international level. As such, 100% of your donations will be passed directly to the Saharawis – or the local civil society networks that support them. Funds will be used as well for cultural activities, conferences, and other public events in the western hemisphere, particularly in Latin America.

OSF is a 501(c)(3) organization (EIN 27-3201859) and all of your donations are fully tax deductible.

While the Saharawis are a self-sufficient and independent people, their continued refugee status means that their resources are extremely limited. They need your support as they continue their peaceful campaign to realize their right to self-determination.

The Organization for Statehood and Freedom (OSF) welcomes and thanks you for your generous donation to the Saharawi people.
